SURPRISING FACTS ABOUT CHESS

Chess is more (EX) than 1,500 years old and experts say it first appeared in India.

It soon travelled to Persia, then to the South of Europe and, today, it has millions of fans all (28a) _____ the world.

The first modern chess tournament was organised in 1851 and the first World Chess Championship in 1886.

The first computer programmes for chess players were made in the 1970s but Internet online games appeared much (29a) _____, around 1995.

One of the (30a) _____ international chess players is Garry Kasparov. He won the World Championship 5 times between 1984 and 1990.

In 1999, Kasparov broke one (31a) _____ record: he played an online game with a team of 50,000 chess players from 75 different countries. He beat them all after 62 moves!

Electronic Games

An interview with Steven Jacksmith from Planet Electronics Inc.

- 32a.  Electronic games have become very popular and teenagers are crazy about them! But are they so different from 'traditional games'?
- 33a.  How long have electronic games been around for?
- 34a.  Do all the games sell well?
- 35a.  Are electronic games good for kids?
- 36a.  Some people think that electronic games are dangerous. Why?

- A. The first game was invented around 1947.
- B. Some experts say that video games help children develop their character. If you want to win, you need to learn to be patient, and to play until you reach your goal...
- C. There are those who believe that electronic games teach you to be violent and that overuse is bad for your eyes. So, yes to 'good' electronic games, but NO to overdoing it too much!
- D. Clearly, you now need a platform. But you also need a joystick, one or more buttons, a mouse or a keyboard, and sometimes speakers or headphones.
- E. Well, not really. They are very much like the games children used to play centuries ago. The only difference is that now they are electronic...
- F. Actually, two of the first and most successful games were Tennis for Two in 1958 and Spacewar in 1961, but now the most popular games are violent ones...
